Shanghai

Shanghai buzzes with a palpable electricity. It's visible from afar in the dramatic skyline, and up close in the activity in the streets. The city is unabashedly forward-looking, full of cosmopolitan dreams and worldly sophistication. Still, gracious touches of colonial elegance and style remain part of the colorful weave of city life, as do splendid temples and parks. The city lures the adventurous with its energy and local contemporary artists have made Shanghai a fine art capital. Unparalleled cuisine is created by both Chinese and international chefs. Shopping, too, is an integral aspect of Shanghaiese culture, catering to a savvy clientele. Shanghai has become an enthralling destination for the knowledgeable traveler.

Memorable Experiences

Breathtaking Vista

Witness the city panorama from the lofty observation deck of Jin Mao Tower.

Sacred Temples

Witness the two life-sized white jade Buddhas at the Yu Fo Si Temple.

Shining Night

Travel beneath the striking glow of Yan'an Elevated Road.

Thrilling Feats

Catch a riveting performance of The Shanghai Acrobatic Troupe.

Distinctive Details

As recently as the 1940's, the vast majority of Shanghaiese lived in the stone and brick "gatehouse" residences known as Shikumen. The elegantly simple structures offer a glimpse of a bygone era.

Cuisine

Mr & Mrs Bund

Behind the glossy persimmon door of Mr & Mrs Bund awaits an utterly contemporary room, filled with natural light and casually elegant gestures. The cuisine is country French, but with a witty and irreverent twist, demonstrating acclaimed Chef Paul Pairet's open-minded approach. Dishes are presented family-style, a nod to traditional Chinese service. Such French classics as cod Meuniere, potatoes Gratin and Chateaubriand fillet can be "remixed" to diners' liking, encouraging a whole new slant to the menu.
